National Black Church Initiative Calls the Video Shooting Death of 17-year old Laquan McDonald Despicable and Pure Evil

He was shot down like a Dog

Washington, DC – The National Black Church Initiative (NBCI), a faith-based coalition of 34,000 churches comprised of 15 denominations and 15.7 million African Americans is saddened to once again to have to raise its moral voice to denounce another racist evil white police officer who has shot a black child without any moral conscience. Officer Jason Van Dyke represents a long and continuous history of white police officers that have systematically killed, maimed, false accused and raped the black community of any aspect of human dignity. The Chicago department has been persecuting black people for 100 years. There are a ton of questions need to be answered but we will never get all of our questions answered. The government will never give us the truth because they are not in the business of telling the truth. The truth is just to painful to hear.

The Rev. Anthony Evans, president of the National Black Church Initiative issues the following statement, “This country will never value the lives of black people until we are all dead. There is nothing else say. May God have mercy on our soul!!

The Obama Justice Department is totally inept and willfully afraid to convict any white police officer whose murder at will any African Americans even on videotape. The Black Church is ashamed of both the President and the Attorney General for their gross inaction, lack of blackness and caring. Martin King and Malcolm X are rolling over in their grave knowing that white hatred has grown stronger. There is no crying out for justice from the vast majority of good white people...only silence.

About NBCI
